In this connection, a biostatistics workshop is being organized on 20th – 22nd December 2023 at THSTI. The workshop endeavours to equip participants with directly applicable knowledge in the realm of clinical research and trials. The sessions will include hands-on exercises, and be participatory in nature.

Speaker: Dr. Hakim-Moulay Dehbi, Head of Statistics at the Comprehensive Clinical Trials Unit at University College London

Co-facilitator: Ms. Ayushi, Biostatistician, THSTI

Organizer: Training Team, CDSA, THSTI

Venue: Seminar Room 1, Translational Health Science and Technology Institute, NCR Biotech Science Cluster, Gurgaon Faridabad Highway, Faridabad-121001

Learning objectives and outcomes

This workshop aims to provide the participants with comprehensive knowledge of biostatistics in clinical research, specifically in clinical trials. The workshop will be focused on the:

- Role of biostatistics in clinical trials
- Estimating parameters and hypothesis testing
- Advanced understanding of clinical trial phases and a suitable study design corresponding to each phase
- Proficiency in determining sample sizes for diverse outcomes
- Statistical analysis for continuous, binary, and time-to-event (or survival analysis) endpoints

Who can attend
